

Forum on Public Policy

---

Allusions to God in Literature and Poetry of Britain and America since 1750: Informing Global Religious Conflict

Volume 3

Number 3

2007

- God, Freedom and Liberty: The Case of Emerson and Whitman
Robert E. Abrams 199
- God: Myth and Mystery from the Romantics through the Twentieth Century
Marian L. Beaman 205
- Thomas Merton, Flannery O'Connor, Albert Camus and F. Scott Fitzgerald:
Faith, Anxiety, Violence and Absurdity: Lots of Ways to be Catholic
Michael J. Callaghan 213
- Turn and Turn and Turn Again: Turning Christian, Turning Turk
in Shakespeare's Othello
Donna J. Hart 219
- Saints, Sinners, and Prophet-Sages: Religion and Nationalism in the Fiction of Harriet Beecher Stowe, Charles Dickens, and Rudyard Kipling
Gladys S. Lewis 231
- Millennialism in American Literature from Jonathan Edward to the Twentieth Century
Mason Lowance, Jr. 239
- The Death Of "God" And The Inherent Conflict In The Presumed "Self"
Askold Skalsky 249
- Is There a God in The Waste Land?
Gale Swiontkowski 257
- God Haunted and God Hunted: The Characters of Graham Greene and Flannery O'Connor Illuminating the Inscrutability of God
Mary L. Warner 263